

Americans Accept Terms of Peace

But Take Precaution That No Further Uprisings Will Be Perpetrated Against Americans

Washington, April 29.—An armistice in the difficulties between the United States and Mexico has been asked of this government and General Huerta by the South American envoys who have undertaken to avert war through mediation. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil today notified Secretary Bryan that this had been determined on as the next step in the negotiations and that General Huerta also had been notified.

The proposal for an armistice was communicated to President Wilson from the state department by telephone. Though no announcement has been made it was authentically learned that this government would accept the conditions provided assurances are given that, in addition to a halt in military operations there would be no civil uprisings against American citizens or other untoward incidents which might prevent peace.

After an hour's conference today the mediation envoys, Mr. Da Gama, Mr. Nano of Argentina and Mr. Suarez of Chile, determined that further negotiations necessarily must proceed without warlike interference, and Ambassador Da Gama went to the state department to acquaint Secretary Bryan of the course thus far taken in the peace plans. The Brazilian minister in Mexico City also was notified and he communicated the information to General Huerta.

What Is Requested

The communication addressed to both governments by the mediation envoys formally requests each government to declare an armistice. It was pointed out by officials here that in all probability the United States would accept the proposal, notwithstanding the fact that this government has not recognized that a state of war exists in Mexico insofar as the operations of the United States are concerned.

Despite this fact, it was believed that the Washington government would not put any barriers in the path of the progress of mediation, particularly at such an early stage of the negotiations. The officials here also believed that General Huerta would accept the first proposal. Constitutionalists Status

The proposal for an armistice, it also was learned, does not include any reference to the constitutionalists in Mexico, the United States and Huerta merely being called on to cease active operations pending further mediation proposals. Consideration of the constitutionalists' possession it was stated probably would be involved in the next step to be taken after an armistice has been agreed to by the principals to the present difficulty.

Under the armistice, in accordance with international proceedings, neither the Huerta government nor the United States would pause in preparations for war. Plans for possible conflict would proceed, but the armistice would prohibit actual hostilities in the field and any extension of military movement by either side. In Mexico people would be permitted to go where they pleased unmolested. It would simply establish a truce.

Appeal To Powers

Officials expressed keen interest in unofficial reports from Berlin that the mediators had asked European powers to use influence on President Wilson that prevent this government making conditions of settlement as mediation progressed which would make impossible the success of the effort to bring about peace. At the state department it was stated that nothing was known of this action on the part of the envoys.

Following his visit to Secretary Bryan, Ambassador Da Gama returned to the Argentine legation where the envoys refused their conference. When this government would make answer to the armistice proposal was not indicated here.

MAN NOW SEES ONLY HALF OF A WOMAN'S FACE

New Bandeau Hat Is Reason. Hems Are Passe, Even Handkerchiefs Have Lost Them

To be on the right side of Polly, Means left when we go out to walk. For then I see one eye, an eyebrow, An ear and some face when we talk. But when I'm in bad I am exiled, To right, 'tis a sad plight at that. For there's nothing left there of Polly, She wearing a new bandeau hat!

New York, April 24.—It's quite appropriate that a moonfaced lady should effect a bandeau hat, for it certainly causes a total eclipse of the right hand side of her countenance.

These plates of togal, picot and crin are set at a perilous angle on a deep ribbon trimmed bandeau which sets on the left side of the head. Their flat tops are almost universally a garden of exquisite blossoms, but one fascinating model glimpsed at the daisant was of black hemp and undressed save for the half of a tiny gold straw shepherdess basket filled with wee pink rosebuds, forget-me-nots and violets set low on the face, concealing right edge. The bandeau disclosed a huge flat bow of black moire.

The side titol is a general favorite of the bandeau hat, but the Ninche launched last season is still popular with its slant upward from the back.

Dresses Not On the Level

The tendency to turn up on the side is not confined to the head by any means this season. A novelty dancing frock of taffeta flounces on a chiffon foundation has a hoop on the right side only. This gives a bias effect which seems to prove the wearer not quite on the level.

A resume of present day fashions is like turning the time stained pages of a Godey's Lady Book. With basque ruching, polonaise, dolman and shoulder cape crowding to the fore, you can almost scent the musk and old lavender that should be clinging to these old time up to date gowns.

Lovely woman is indeed all wrapped up in the old new cape wraps. Fitting tightly over the shoulders the separate cape wraps break out into ruffles and flounces to show their three quarter finish, while many of the jackets to the smartest tailored suits show quaint little shoulder capes, instead of collars. In fact, the erstwhile regulation tailored coat collar is absolutely taboo. Aside from capes, the Capuchin collar and the Japanese are the most popular.

The few hemless skirts of last winter have now become legion and a hem on a skirt nowadays practically stamps it as passe. Either the selva of the goods is used in lieu of a hem, or else the skirt is faced up with a lining of self matching chiffon. Even handkerchiefs have taken to turning up noses at hems, at least hemstitched ones. The smartest ones are now rolled and cross stitched in colors, or else buttonhole stitched in pastel hues. No matter how its edge is finished, the crucial point about the 1914 hankey is that it must have tint to have tone.

Whether the new style coiffure and the exposed ear are an outcome of the bandeau hat, or the bandeau hat is an outcome of the hair dressing, is a question, but both seem responsible for the sickle spit curl in front of each ear, that seductive beauty mark flicked from the daughters of Andalusia.

EL IMPARCIAL

RECITES VICTORY

El Paso, Texas, April 29.—A copy of the Mexico newspaper El Imparcial, received here yesterday tells of the capture of El Paso by the combined forces of General Velasco, the federal leader and General Villa.

The story under date of last Thursday says that the Americans were surprised and overwhelmed and that Villa and Velasco established headquarters in the leading hotel.

Negotiations ensued, says the inspired story, as a result of which the frightened Americans ceded the southern half of the city back to Mexico.

ORE STEAMER SINKS ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Fears Are Felt In Duluth For the Safety Of Other Ships

Duluth, Minn., April 29.—That the steamer Benjamin Noble, her crew of twenty or more men and officers and a large cargo of railroad iron were swallowed up in the turbulent waters of storm swept Lake Superior last night was made certain today when the life saving crew picked up wreckage from the steamer off Minnesota point, Duluth. All efforts to locate the hulk of the steamer have proved fruitless.

Details of where and when the vessel founded probably will never be known. There is a possibility that she grounded on either the north or south shore and was broken up by the waves but the general belief is that she missed the Duluth entrance and struck the point and foundered in deep water.

The last report of the vessel received shows that she passed up the Soo on April 25 at 7 a. m. laden with iron for Duluth. Under good weather conditions she should have arrived two days ago.

This afternoon the tug captains looking for the wreck, located the cabin of the Noble on a sand reef near Minnesota point. They assert that this makes it certain that the crew was lost. No bodies have come ashore.

Anxiety is felt here for five vessels headed for this port. All of them were overdue yesterday. These are the William H. Truesdale, Willis King, F. T. Hoffelinger, Sheldon Parks and David Z. Norton. No word has been received of these vessels, although diligent search by wireless has been made throughout last night and this morning.

NAVY DEMONSTRATED ITS PREPAREDNESS

Operations In Mexico, He Says Have Served To Test Out This Organization

Washington, April 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels issued a statement today in which he said that if the operations in Mexico have no other results, they have served to test out the organization and preparedness of the navy.

It is now well known, the secretary said, that President Wilson issued orders at 4 o'clock in the morning to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz. Almost immediately the machinery was put in motion for meeting the situation thus created. Ships were chartered to carry away the refugees, supplies were shipped by the thousands of tons, ship after ship was fitted out, received her officers, crew and stores and slipped away to the south with hardly a ripple of confusion.

When the order to take Vera Cruz was given, only the active fleet was in service. During the next four days the number of ships in service was nearly doubled. The colliers and supply ships were loaded and sent away. Some are already returning for their second cargoes. The marines were gathered from widely scattered points, collected at the navy yards from which the ships were starting and marched on board.

To the casual observer the navy yards appeared as the scenes of the greatest activity, but it was action without confusion. One event followed another with great rapidity, but with orderly sequence.

The newest dreadnought, the New York, sailed from her home yard complete and ready in every respect, exactly ten days after first hoisting her flag and going into commission. Gunboats which had long been laid up in reserve were placed in full commission took on coal and stores and left as a rule within forty-eight hours of the receipt of their orders.

Many unseen contingencies arose, as must always be the case but none which could not be overcome by the energies of the officers and men. The commandants of the various navy yards were unflinching in their activity and in all respects as regards material the navy was found ready. Among the first articles supplied when it was found that the bluejackets were to be landed were 10,000 yards of mosquito netting and 200 pounds of bug powder.

The Secretary added that he still stood pat on the two battleship program.

The Democratic party is now manufacturing votes by the wholesale for the protective party. If half of the idle men in the cities are Democrats they know the reason for their idleness and will remember it on next election day. For every idle man, another knows it, as he must support that idle man, and will also remember. This vote alone will turn the next election to an overwhelming defeat for Democracy.

BASEBALL AND BEER

Baseball is the National Pastime. Beer is the National Drink.

The views of two of the leading baseball men of America as to TRUE TEMPERANCE will be of interest.

Managing Editor, New York Evening Journal:

DEAR SIR:—The members of the New York American League Club are very glad to amuse the newsboys by playing for them without any charge whatever. We also accept with pleasure the Journal's invitation to dine after the game.

May I suggest, in regard to the dinner, that the men, while the season is on, lead very temperate lives. If you will give them a good American dinner, with plain American beer, they will appreciate it. Yours very truly,

New York American League Baseball Club.

National Highways

The people of this country are building a National Highway as a lasting monument to a great man

Through fertile fields, thriving cities, across rivers and over mountains, the Lincoln Highway will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific

San Francisco will be joined with New York, and the thousand cities and towns along the way will be benefited

Another National Highway—The Telephone Way—will be opened to the public before the Lincoln Way is ready for travel

From New York to San Francisco the big copper wires of the Bell System extend in an unbroken line—the broad highway of Universal Service

This Highway, too, is a lasting monument—to the energy of private enterprise

To that spirit of service that has made the Bell System one of the largest and most useful corporations in the country

In your own telephone company's territory alone—the seven Mountain States—there are 80,000 miles of long distance highways open for your messages every day
